Your VA isn't forgetful. Your process lives in your head.

From a discovery call with a cleaning business owner.

WHAT SHE SAID

“

I've had previous VAs that, you know, they keep forgetting stuff.

CLEANING BUSINESS OWNER, DISCOVERY CALL

THE PATTERN

The work repeats every day. The list doesn't exist.

So every day, someone has to remember it.

PART 1

A daily task list she ticks off.

01 The same tasks, every morning

02 Marked done as she goes

03 Nothing depends on memory

PART 2

A checklist for every booked job.

01 Which cleaner is assigned

02 Did they check in on the day

03 Did we get photos

04 Any issues to follow up

PART 3

Put the scripts next to the tasks.

She had already written phone scripts and quote questions. They belong where the work happens.

THE ORDER

Daily list first. Ready in a day.

The full system was planned over three days. The task list came first.

YOUR MOVE

Before you hire again, write the list.

Who on your team is still running on memory?
